

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

Designed to protect the privacy of educational records; establish rights of students to inspect their records; and provide guidelines for correcting inaccurate data.

Does FERPA Apply to All Students?

- Yes. All students, (regardless of age), who attend or have previously attended postsecondary institutions have FERPA rights.
- Attending student: Any individual who is or has been in attendance at the University of Tennessee and for whom the University maintains education records. An individual is considered to be in attendance when he or she registers for an academic offering at the University, whether or not the academic offering is offered for credit or no credit, and whether or not the academic offering is offered in person or by paper correspondence, videoconference, satellite, internet, or other electronic information or telecommunications technologies for students who are physically present in the classroom. The following persons are not students: (1) applicants who were denied admission to the University; and (2) applicants who were admitted to the University but did not register for courses.

Who is Responsible for Seeing that FERPA is Enforced?

All members of the university community, (faculty, staff and students), who have access to student records are responsible for guarding their confidentiality.

What Does FERPA Guarantee Students?

FERPA gives students the right to:

- inspect and review their own records;
- request amendments to their record;
- have some control over the release of personally identifiable information from their records; and
- file a complaint with the Department of Education concerning an alleged failure to comply with FERPA regulations.

How are Students Made Aware of FERPA?

Notification at the University of Tennessee is furnished at Freshmen Orientation; through Hilltopics, Graduate and Undergraduate Catalogs; and on the FERPA and Student Privacy website: <http://ferpa.utk.edu/>.

CAN A STUDENT LIMIT RELEASE OF DIRECTORY INFORMATION?

Yes. Students can be excluded from directory creation or have more stringent privacy measures instituted. Students can learn more at: FERPA and Student Privacy website: <http://ferpa.utk.edu/> or through the Office of the University Registrar, 209 Student Services Building, (865) 974-1501.

HOW DO I KNOW IF A STUDENT HAS ASKED THAT NO INFORMATION BE RELEASED?

Look for the words “Confidential Information For . . .” printed near the top of the academic history, and a confidentiality warning on student information screens accessible by departmental personnel in colleges and administrative offices.
